BONANZA BIRTHDAY MARKS THE OPENING OF TWENTIETH YEAR

This is the nineteenth anniversary of the birth of the Tonopah Bonanza. Nineteen years ago the young camp of Tonopah was little known and the boosters depending on Jim Butler's discovery on the slope of what later became known as Mt. Oddie, felt that the camp was not getting its share of publicity and therefore prevailed upon W. W. Booth to fill the aching void with a five column folio kicked off on a jobber. The paper was hailed with delight when it appeared on Saturday June 15th, 1901 with 100 words of "Salutatory" couched in language that could not be mistaken. "Our policy will be for the best of the country. That the paper will meet with public favor is left to the opinion of the reader and advertiser. We have done our best." The selling price was 10 cents and the entire issue was disposed of faster than it could be printed at the rate of 25 cents a copy. Despite the rapid recovery it is admitted that the patient had a close call as the bullet entered two inches above the hip grazing the bone cutting the nerve and the tenders to the lower limb. In its course the missile went within a quarter of an inch of the spine and lodged back of the liver where it is permitted to remain as Dr. McKenzie suggested that an operation looking to the removal might endanger the life of the patient. No infection set in and it is believed that all danger has been safely bridged. On reaching the hospital "Jimmy" was able to get out of his car without any assistance. Nine X-ray pictures were taken before the bullet was located.

WINGFIELD BACK FROM CHICAGO

Filled with optimism over the probability of republican success in the present campaign and satisfied that the Chicago convention nominated the strongest possible ticket, George Wingfield, Republican national committeeman from this state, returned from the east yesterday, says the Reno Gazette of Monday.

"I am confident that the Republican convention nominated the best man as its standard bearer that it was possible to pick and put out the best ticket available. The nomination of Harding and Coolidge was satisfactory to all factions in the convention."

Senator Harding is recognized as one of the biggest senators we have and the fact that he held aloft from all factions in the pre-convention campaign makes it possible for all to get back of him. He is neither a railroad nor a "standstill" and for that reason has the respect of both wings of the party.

"No doubt exists throughout the east about the success of the Republican ticket this year. Democrats are few and far between and are confined almost exclusively to office holders and men and women who have been on the government payroll."

Wingfield expresses the belief that if Nevada Republicans hang together this year this state will send a Republican senator to replace Senator Henderson.
